

Who am I?

My name is Ryan Ho Kwok Xheng and I will be turning 30 this year. I've lived in SS2 my whole life, having gone to Taman SEA for both my primary and secondary education. I practised as a lawyer before moving to Accenture and here I am today – offering myself to serve and protect the rights of the people of Damansara and Malaysia.

Why I entered politics?

There is simply too much hate in the world and in Malaysia today because of the hate being spread on social media. Politics is meant to unite us - we have to rise above the division and hatred and instead seek to find the common good that binds us as people and a community. The issues we face as a society is not for the blame game of politics but a checklist of problems awaiting solutions.

What will I champion?

1

Unity

I will work continuously to bring our rakyat back together again. Regardless of party affiliations, I will support bills that will genuinely improve the life of the rakyat. To unite our nation through activities that we can all stand behind like sports, arts and music.

2

Education

To sincerely champion education that will prepare the youths of tomorrow for more skilled jobs of the future as we will be living in an automated world. A world where robotics and the internet of things is the norm. Where the people of today would have the resources and upskilling opportunities necessary to ensure Malaysians will take charge of the future.

3

Seniors

I want to personally ensure that all senior citizens in Damansara will be well looked after. They've been neglected for far too long. After all, we are nothing if not for the sacrifices our parents have made us. As such I will look towards promoting policies that will provide for senior citizens. This can come in the form of ensuring more senior citizen programs in the area to pushing for policies that benefit senior citizens.

4

Honesty and Honour

Honesty and honour make a huge part of who I am as a person. I'll tell it like it is without twisting my words because we have no time for miscommunication. More importantly, I will do the right thing out of principle because I was brought up and raised to not cheat and lie. I will ensure that the government is accountable to the people in Malaysia, we deserve honesty and honour from our leaders.

Youths

The youths are facing numerous problems today. From finding jobs, stagnant wages and soaring property prices, we are finding it hard to even own our own home much less think about starting a family. I have the same concerns just like you, and as such we want to implement policies like increasing minimum wage to RM1,500, the creation of more jobs, helping digital entrepreneurs succeed, having more affordable homes, and also universal child care for all. Not to mention TN50 policy which will change the lives of our youth for the better.
